

Best Practice -I (2021-2022)

Title of the Practice: Publication of Bi-monthly Bulletin

Objectives of the Practice:

- a. To connect faculty, student teachers and alumni in one platform.
- b. To encourage writing and reading skills.
- c. To facilitate expression of thoughts and ideas through writing.
- d. To share resources with the students.
- e. To encourage team work.
- f. To reflect college activities both academic and co-curricular.

Underlying Principles:

To prepare reflective humane teachers a variety of activities are essential. Of the many platforms for a person's development, one of the best ways to express oneself is through writing. The bulletin serves as a platform to many students and teachers for sharing their experiences and ideas and it forms a link between them. Bringing out a bulletin keeps the members closely knitted and well informed about the activities undertaken by the college. Another aspect of the bulletin is keeping in touch with the alumni whose experiences shared through writing reminds the college of the times we had with them. The bulletin also provides opportunity for team work, coordination and unity among the members who work for it. Keeping all these in view the college resolved to bring out a Bi-monthly Bulletin.

The Context:

Sharing ideas through writing is one of the best ways as anything kept in writing remains in the book or bulletin for future reference. The annual college magazine of the college cannot accommodate the many thoughts and expressions of individuals through poems, songs, music and art. Therefore, many get opportunity to share through this bulletin.

The Practice:

Every two months, announcement is made to the student-teachers as well as faculty to contribute articles for the bulletin. The alumni are also invited to share their experiences and thoughts in the alumni column reserved for them. Teachers are given chance turn-by turn to share resources and writings to open opportunities to all of them. Another column is reserved for writing a brief report on the administrative events during the two months period. Achievements if any is also announced through the bulletin. To make it a paperless practice, it is shared online through the college website.

Evidence of Success:

The bulletin has had 7 (seven) issues.

Problems Encountered and Resources required:

No problems as such were encountered.
